'Kedah has enough water supply for drought season'

ALOR STAR: The water supply for domestic and agricultural needs in Kedah is sufficient for the drought season, said state Public Works, Water Supply, Water Resources and Energy Committee chairman Zamri Yusuf. He said the state government could overcome any water supply crisis. "Rainfall has not been as high as expected. In terms of water reserves, there is a slight decrease in the Muda dam from 75 per cent to 60 per cent, but the water reserves in the Pedu and Beris dams are adequate. Syarikat Air Darul Aman has taken measures, including managing water supply for residents in Bedong using supplies from other areas. This will allow the supply in the Muda dam to be better channelled to residents in Tanjung Dawai and Merbok."
