ANKLES OF PYGMY ELEPHANT CUT OFF

KINABATANGAN: The highly-decomposed carcass of a Borneo pygmy elephant, with the ankles severed, was found floating in Sugai Kinabatangan on Monday. It is believed that the ankles had been severed from the hind legs of the pachyderm with a sharp object. However, a post-mortem conducted yesterday could not determine the nature of the equipment used to sever the limbs or whether it was done before or after the animal had died, Kinabatangan police chief Supt Dzulbaharin Ismail said. The case is being investigated under Section 25(1) of the Wildlife Conservation Enactment 1997 and will be reclassified when the full post-mortem is out, he said.
